ABSTRACT

This statistical summary contains 14 tables, 17 figures, and narrative that detail data on Missouri's 85 certified private career schools for 1996-97. During this time, these schools enrolled 44,391 students in 732 instructional programs, with most enrolled in business-related and allied-health programs. Other findings note that the schools reported a 70 percent employment rate for graduates, graduated 18,640 students, expended $79,473,114 into the state's economy, and employed 1,435 persons. Section 1 includes 17 tables that provide a graphic summary of the private career school sector. Figures show school certifications, program distribution, student preparation, completions, institutional finance, and enrollment by various student and program characteristics. The second section provides an inventory of instructional programs by school and program. Section 3 summarizes student preparation by school and residency status. Section 4 details enrollment by program and student characteristics. Section 5 shows completions and employment by award level and employment in training-related fields by program; and Section 6 summarizes program resources, including staff, income, expenditures, and student financial aid. Four appendices offer inventories of programs and the Classification of Instructional Programs coding system. (DB)

FOREWORD

Kala M. Stroup
Commissioner of Higher Education

The Coordinating Board for Higher Education has statutory responsibility for the certification of proprietary schools to operate in Missouri. The data in this report provide important information about this major educational resource for the state.

Among the requirements for schools to be certified is the submission of institutional and student data. These data permit observations about the private career schools, both individually and as a group, including the number of students enrolled; the demographic, educational, and economic characteristics of those students; the types of programs in which the students are enrolled; the number of students graduated; and the success of those graduates in securing employment related to their area of study.

The Statistical Summary: Proprietary Sector of Missouri Postsecondary Education, 1996-1997 is the ninth annual report and summary of information relating to Missouri's private career schools. It is intended that the publication be an informational and planning resource for the schools that submitted the data, for accrediting and professional associations, and for governmental bodies and agencies. The assistance of private career school officials, without whose effort and cooperation this resource would not be possible, is greatly appreciated.

INTRODUCTION

Extensive institutional and student data are collected from the private career schools that are certified to operate under the provisions of sections 173.600 through 173.619 of the Missouri statutes. These data are processed and maintained as a planning and decision making resource for the schools submitting the data and for the Coordinating Board. They permit observation of the characteristics, scope, and economic impact of the proprietary sector and the identification of trends over a period of time.

This Statistical Summary: Proprietary Sector of Missouri Postsecondary Education is the ninth annual publication derived from those data collection efforts. It is a compilation of the data collected for schools certified during calendar year 1996 and a graphic display highlighting changes taking place in this sector over the last five years. It is important to note the school directory and the list of schools submitting data are not the same. Data are available from some closed schools that no longer are listed in the directory. Conversely, newly certified schools are listed in the directory but may not have submitted enrollment or other data at this time. The proprietary sector is somewhat more heterogeneous and fluid than other sectors of postsecondary education and its configuration is in a continual process of evolution and change.

There are data for 85 Missouri-based private career schools reported in the statistical summary portion of this publication. While data are displayed by individual school, the observations made in this narrative and in the graphical displays are limited to the private career school sector in Missouri as a whole.

During 1996, Missouri private career schools enrolled 44,391 students in 732 instructional programs of a widely varied nature. This enrollment figure includes both students enrolled in on-campus programs as well as those receiving their education by correspondence. As the graphical display section indicates, the great bulk of students continues to be enrolled in business-related programs. Allied health continues to show a marked increase in enrollment and in its share of total enrollment.

It should be noted that some of the tables and graphs contained in the report do not include enrollment information for correspondence schools. This is a result of the limited nature of data collection activities considered feasible for this type of school. Current goals of the certification program include enhancement of the student-oriented data collected from correspondence schools. This would allow broader inclusion of these schools in this report.

The changing workplace is bringing students into private career schools with different needs and goals. For example, students attending private career schools generally have a better educational foundation than five years ago as evidenced by the low percentage that are enrolling without a general educational development (GED) or high school diploma. Because a degree often provides greater opportunities for advancement and earning potential, private career school students also have shown a strong interest in degree programs. Of the total number of students enrolled in Missouri private career schools (excluding correspondence programs), 31 percent report they are pursuing a degree. At accredited institutions, where nearly all of the degree programs are currently offered, more than one student in four graduated from an associate or baccalaureate degree program in 1996. In 1992, the proportion was less than one in six.

The data also indicate that private career schools are continuing a high level of performance in the area of success of graduates finding employment in their field of study. The employment rate for graduates remained above 70 percent for the fifth consecutive year. This is another obvious indication that this sector is strongly attuned to the needs of business and industry.

The schools included in this report graduated 18,640 students into the employment market, expended $79,473,114 into the state's economy, and employed 1,435 persons with a payroll of $35,401,674. In addition, they awarded $68,328,405 in student financial aid. Clearly the private career school sector is a sizeable segment of postsecondary education in Missouri which continues to command public interest.

The integrity of this directory and statistical summary is sensitive to the accuracy of the data submitted by individual schools and to the processes of recording and display of those data by the Department of Higher Education. The utmost care has been exerted to maximize its integrity; however, total attainment of that goal is still being pursued. Inquiries regarding the contents of this publication should be directed to Leroy Wade, Coordinating Board for Higher Education, 3515 Amazonas Drive, Jefferson City, Missouri, 65109-5717; (314) 751-2361.
